RICE TABLE.

The Principal Dish at the Midday Meal in Java.

In Java, as in most really warm countries, it is customary to rise early and to take a cup of tea or coffee, together with a biscuit and some fruit, immediately on leaving one's bed. This is followed by a more substantial breakfast, but the first really serious meal is served at half past 12 o'clock and is the equivalent of the French "dejeuner a la fourchette" or the Anglo-Indian tiffin. This meal is called rice table—"rystafel"—from the principal dish, a very elaborate curry, in the preparation of which the Malay cooks are especially skillful.

The peculiarity of the rice table consists in the number and variety of dishes presented. From these dishes the guest has to select the materials which, together with the rice upon the soup plate before him, are to constitute his curry. It is also as well to know beforehand that one is not required to lunch solely on curry, but that the rice table is succeeded by courses of ordinary luncheon dishes. It is a case, therefore, of "embarras des richesses."

The second danger is that of making up one's curry "not wisely, but too well," and leaving neither appetite nor capacity for the beefsteak or for any of the other solid dishes which subsequently appear and which under these circumstances only produce a feeling of mingled horror and consternation. It is then that one suddenly realizes that the rice table is merely a sort of tremendous "hors d'oeuvre."

There are two dangers to be avoided. In the first place, it is quite possible, in spite of the number of the dishes presented singly, to say nothing of an octagonal tray containing a separate chutney in each of its nine compartments, to get no lunch at all, for nothing is easier than after saying "nein" to a succession of frivolous compounds to dismiss the one solid and palatable dish.—Pearson's.

Think Straight.

It would be impossible for a lawyer to make a reputation in his profession while continually thinking about medicine or engineering. He must think about law and must study and become thoroughly imbued with its principles. It is unscientific to expect to attain excellence or ability enough to gain distinction in any particular line while holding the mind upon and continually contemplating something radically different.—Success.

WOMEN'S MAYFLOWER SHOE

STAR BRAND SHOES ARE BETTER

MODERN STYLES OLD-TIME HONESTY

A Shoe as good as the name it bears

SOME time ago the manufacturers, Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co., set about to produce a shoe of high quality that could be sold at a medium price.

They have reduced the process of shoemaking to a scientific basis and the result is the

"MAYFLOWER"

This is a shoe that could be sold for a great deal more money than 2.50 and 3.00. However, there is a demand for a shoe at these prices, and we have it.

There need be no hesitancy in buying the "Mayflower." It is made right and backed by the manufacturers. If they are not honestly constructed in every way we will refund your money.

We have styles enough to please the most particular.
